Purpose and participant outcomes

For a mixed group of Ni-Vanuatu participants, this workshop connects digitisation, AI and cyber security to a clear business outcome: being easier to find online and working more professionally.

- Prepare accurate business information and identify a registration next step.
- Prepare or improve an eligible Google Business Profile.
- Use AI to draft business copy, including supported Bislama learning.
- Create a website draft and practise one customer workflow in Digi Assist AI.
- Distinguish invoices from receipts and check a practice transaction.
- Choose security actions and continue the BLP workshop learning on the PWD course platform.

Delivery: English presentation, short Bislama workbook explanations, live demonstrations, guided practice and peer review. Facilitators and BLP staff from Port Vila and Santo will support the group; individual roles and attendance mode will be confirmed.

Keep learning with BLP and PWD

Business Link Pacific hosts the workshop and Pacific Wave Digital delivers the training. The BLP workshop course on the PWD platform will provide registration, session replays, worksheets and instructor questions after the event.

What makes this workshop distinctive

- Local business tasks, Ni-Vanuatu imagery and Bislama support.
- Participants build useful business assets, with paper and shared-device alternatives.
- A connected path from discovery to customer service and business documents.
- Facilitated practice on the day, followed by replay and question support.

Organiser decisions before launch

Confirm attendance and room capacity; devices and internet; facilitator roles; demo/participant accounts; course URL and access terms; recording notice and permissions; support responsibilities; and local Bislama review.

The pack does not promise business income, Google ranking, completed verification, or a software subscription. PWD branding uses its supplied logo, navy and orange. AI-generated images are illustrative, not photographs of actual participants.
